MONDAY EVENING, AUGUST 25.

WEALTHY MEN HER PREY .- Emma Morgan, alias Emma Forger, an octoroon of twenty-three years, was a prisoner in the Tombs Police Court in New York on Saturlay. She was charged with stealing $19,000 from a prominent merchant of Spokace Fails while he was a guest at the young woman's first in New York. The merchant, whose name is not reveiled, went to New York on business last January and became infatuated with the octoroor, and proved to be an easy victim. He narrated the story of the robbery to Inspector Byross, and Detectives Jacobs and Armstrong were etailed on the case. Emma was traced from New York to Denver, but there the trail was lost and the detectives returned. They were, however, wa chful, and on last Monday morning their vigilance was rewarded by the the capture of the woman in New York. She was taken to police headquar ters, and there she has since been a prisoner. She refu-ed to confere the crime or tell what she did with the money.

Justice Patterson held her on a charge o grand larceny. The merchant has been notified to come to New York and identify the woman.

She has been a successful operator in most of the large cities of this country, and in San Francisco was a promisent figure in sveral notorious affairs,

CREPE and CRINKLED TISSUE PAPER in twenty different shades, made of a fine, crimped, soft material, resembling silk crepe cloth more than paper. Its elasticity is wonderful, the paper than paper. Its elasticity is wonderful, the paper stretching to almost double its length when pulled. The uses to which these papers can be put are almost endless. In many instances where silk crope (an expensive article) used to be used this imitation creps will be found a cheap and efficient substitute. In addition to lamp shades, fire grates, ecreens, etc., these materiale, owing to their toughness and elasticity, can be used, for fancyball costumes, &c. The various colors are beautiful in themselves, and when harmonized have a charming effect. We carry also in stock all the shades in French tissues. shades in French tissues.
